Introduction

The housing development program at ABAG has been especially concerned with the housing of lower-income households in the San Francisco Bay Area. The Bay Area Directory of Assisted Housing, an update and expansion of earlier versions, is intended as a guide to housing opportunities for low-income, minority, and elderly households.

The Directory was compiled from information provided by local community development and planning officers, Local Housing Authorities, the San Francisco Area Office of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and the Santa Rosa District Office of the federal Farmers Home Administration.

The Directory lists residential developments which use federal assistance to offer housing within the means of lower-income households. These developments include rental units for families only, those for the elderly and handicapped only, and those for both kinds of groups ("mixed housing"). They also include limited equity cooperative ("co-op") housing for families--as well as some for the elderly and handicapped. In co-op housing, tenants pay a "downpayment" to purchase a share in the co-op. Their monthly "rent" covers their proportionate share of interest, principal, and maintenance costs. Tenants elect a board of directors to manage the co-op and have a say in the selection of future tenants.

The information contained in this Directory is current as of May 1982. The inventory of housing fluctuates as newly-completed developments are added and other development withdrawn from the subsidized market. Developments not yet completed, but either approved or under construction, have been included and are so noted in the text.*

No effort was made to determine the availability of vacancies or the length of waiting lists. The housing listed here was produced under a variety of financing programs, each with its own regulations. Moreover, income limits vary from one locality to another. For further information about specific projects, prospective tenants should consult the management of the individual developments in which they are interested and/or the Local Housing Authority (LHA) serving the specified locality.

* See the "Directory Format," page iii, for explanation of all special notations contained in the text.

In addition to the list of subsidized private housing, this Directory includes the addresses of Local Housing Authorities, publicly-owned low-rent housing and the number of "Certificates of Family Participation" assigned to each LHA under the Section 8 Existing Housing Program. The latter program provides rent supplements to enable lower-income households to afford housing in the private market which they locate for themselves.

A separate report on the compilation and analysis of information in this edition of the Directory of Assisted Housing has just been completed and is available on request. ABAG has also assembled a slide show of assisted housing developments throughout the Bay Area which is available to local governments and community groups. Please contact ABAG's Housing Development Program if you are interested in either of these products.
